e-Zsigma completes Six Sigma Black Belt training curriculum for Wyman-Gordon.

HOUSTON, TX – March 2, 2001 – e-Zsigma has just completed the design and delivery of Wyman-Gordon Company's Six Sigma program, which involved the merging of their existing, lean-focused "Never-ending Improvement" program (NEI), with Six Sigma concepts, tools, and methodology.

The resulting NEI-Six Sigma program was delivered to a class of eighteen Black Belt trainees over several months, and was supported by Wyman-Gordon trainers: Black Belts who will now continue to lead the deployment of this truly unique program to future Wyman-Gordon trainees.

With over 4000 employees staffing facilities and offices located across North America and around the world, Wyman-Gordon Company is the acknowledged leader in the production of technologically advanced forging and investment casting components, and composite airframe structures for the commercial aviation, commercial power and performance product industries.

With offices in Boston, Wichita, and Toronto, and supported by an international team of Six Sigma, Lean, and management specialists, e-Zsigma™ delivers a comprehensive suite of products, consulting, and training services that enable organizations to achieve "best in class" performance.

e-Zsigma, your total Six Sigma solutions provider is also the home of "My e-Zsigma.com: The Window to Your Six Sigma World" – the first web-enabled Six Sigma Management Solution available in both local and ASP versions.
